

CMC Ties Up with Kalesinterflex to Offer Porcelain Slim Slabs

By Editorial Team — 15 July, 2021

Porcelain Slim Slabs have emerged as a viable alternative to increasing demand for innovative and technologically superior material. These ceramic slabs are known for their strength, light weight, flexibility and adaptability. CMC has exclusively partnered with international tile manufacturers including Turkey's leading brand, Kalesinterflex.

Classic Marble Company (CMC) has introduced its latest offering from the Kalesinterflex Metallic range of porcelain slabs, Metal Copper. Innovative technology combined with natural metallic look gives this product the feel, richness and texture of metal. Launched under its metallic series, the Metal Copper is completely food-safe and also has a Kaleguard coating. Kaleguard is a unique surface protection application that has antibacterial, water-repellent and self-cleaning (photo catalytic) features. The Metal Copper is highly flexible and lends itself to any type of application, exterior and interior wall cladding, flooring and furniture, for both classic and modern architectural styles.
